

Gabriele Bertoli

Safari Books Online – IT Answers in an Instant

Safari Books Online is a virtual library and offers easy online access to over 4500 of leading programming and IT books. With Safari, the user can search across every book in the library to immediately pinpoint the book, chapter, section and example code that is needed to research the problem at hand. Safari is loaded with books from the publishers that you trust. It's the only place you find electronic versions of books from its publisher owners O'Reilly and Pearson. Safari also carries trusted content from publishing partners such as Microsoft Press and IBM Redbooks. Safari saves the librarian getting headaches about selecting and swapping book titles or purchasing large collection of books that would not be needed or used. Safari allows the user access to the highest quality content and provides immediate answers and training for skill development and problem solving. The user finds information faster and more easily than through random web searches or asking friends and co-workers. The Safari search across thousands of articles simultaneously saves wasted time and effort.

Biography

Gabriele Bertoli is Senior Account Manager with ProQuest. She has been in the library industry for many years and has been involved in major consortia negotiations in Austria, Germany and Switzerland as well as Eastern Europe.